"NO FUN IF TOO CLOSE"Captain C. W. Kalloch, Director of Shipping In Algiers Area, Makes That Comment
On Bombing

Looking every inch the man of affairs that he is today, Captain Charles W. Kalloch came down from New York yesterday for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. William R. Kalloch of Main street. When this story catches the reader's eye he will be headed toward Washington on the first leg of his long journey back to Algiers, where he now has his headquarters as regional director of the War Shipping Administration.

His work embraces visits to Italy, Sicily, Morocco and Tunisia, to Egypt's borders. He spent 10 days at the momentous Cairo conference and was close at hand to President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and the other bigwigs who were in attendance upon that occasion.

At his home in Algiers Capt. Kalloch had pleasure of entertaining two men from "back home," Capt. Job Cunningham, formerly of Rockland and Vinalhaven, and Captain Tom Sweeney of Rockland. And you may rest assured that was some talkfest.

The area which Captain Kalloch traverses represents the Allies' conquest, but it has also felt the Axis might during his stay there, and enemy bombs have punctuated his visits. "It's no fun if you are too close to where a bomb hits," says the former Rockland boy, "and I've been plenty near."

"You would be amazed," he added if you could see how well the Allies operated within their objectives at Naples. Their targets were the docks and shipping along the waterfront. So well did they strike that the ruins did not extend inland more than two blocks."

Captain Kalloch says that the man in the street, in Algiers, is unfriendly, some to the point of hostility, with the Allies, because with their advent trade with the censored nations ceased. Algiers, normally a city of 350,000 now has a population of one million.

Captain Kalloch's brother Ralph, is port representative at Olan, in charge of American shipping there.

And Did They Work?Knox County Chapter Congratulated Upon the Surgical Dressings It Made

Three rousing cheers for Knox County Chapter Red Cross dressings for the valiant work accomplished.

In November was sent to us 225,000 dressings to be made and shipped by Dec. 31. And did they work! One branch worked all day, then into the night, until 1:30 a. m., to finish its quota, and it did not mean maybe!

Rockland was on duty valiantly with all the others. It certainly was gratifying to receive from headquarters this fine compliment:

"My dear Mrs. Leighton: Your Chapter may well be proud of the fine work it has done in meeting the December 31 deadline, and we at headquarters offer our congratulations on the excellent shipping record you have made now and always."

Many women got up earlier and stayed up later to do all this patriotic work. We fear it will not be the last call for extra effort, and we know that so long as need is urgent Knox County will stand by and do the work needed.—K. S. P.

Boynton To Run

George E. Boynton of Camden who lost out by a small margin in the four-cornered contest for the Republican County Commissioner nomination two years ago, announced yesterday that he will be a candidate again in the June primaries. "And you may say" he added, "that this time I am going to take off my coat and work."

On "Approved" ListKnox Hospital Selected By the American College Of Surgeons

Health and morale on the home front promote success on the battle fronts. Hospitals play a major part in conserving health and maintaining morale. Announcement by the American College of Surgeons of 3,253 hospitals in the United States and Canada, which were approved on the basis of 1943 surveys, and which include 264 more institutions than were approved a year ago, proves that hospitals are upholding their part in the war effort. By minimizing deaths and disabilities from disease and injury, they prevent waste of valuable manpower needed in the production of war materials and other vital activities.

Relaxation of efforts to cure and to check disease would cause far greater loss of life than enemy action. In fact, advances in medical science since the beginning of the war, have saved many more lives than have been lost in warfare. The lowest death rate in the history of the United States death registration area, 10.4 per thousand, was recorded in 1942. In Canada the 1942 rate was 9.7 per thousand, also the lowest ever recorded. Indications are that the 1943 rates in the two countries may be even lower.

In the list of Maine's approved hospitals is the Knox County General Hospital of Rockland, its capacity given as 72 patients.

The Kiwanis Club*Meeting Last Night Featured
By the "Get Acquainted Sing"

Kiwanians, last night heard A. Alan Grossman, president for 1944, tell of his attendance at the Mid-Winter Conference of the New England District of Kiwanis International held at the Hotel Touraine, Boston, Saturday.

Features of the conference were the Get Acquainted Sing, led by Fred F. Fox, district chairman of music; an address, "Purpose of the Conference," by Russell L. Norton, district governor; a conference of presidents and vice presidents, presided over by L. Francis Kennedy, district chairman of Kiwanis education and Installation Luncheon with Everett W. Ireland, past governor, presiding.

Mr. Grossman said that the slogan for the year was, "Keep America American;" that one of the objectives of Kiwanis with respect to the membership, was "Use Him or Lose Him," and that the district convention would be held in Swampscott, Mass., Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

Six of the clubs of Division No. 9 were represented, those present from the division including C. Everett Page of Dover-Foxcroft; present lieutenant governor, J. Roland Spear of South Brewer, past lieutenant governor, and three men from the Waterville club, each wearing red shirts and yellow neckties.

Almon M. Young, chairman of the War Honor Roll committee, announced that the Honor Roll board would be increased in size shortly, and that 50 names were to be added; Paul Plourde, soon to enter the armed service, was presented a gift from the club. Omer Kirk of Bangor and Stafford M. Congdon of Rockport and Rockland, were guests of members.

Following President Grossman's talk Dr. Donald T. Leigh showed two reels of pictures, one on sports and the other on news.

Col. Rice Honored

Col. Albert S. Rice, who was born in Rockland, Aug. 10, 1897, son of Mervyn ap Rice and Nellie (Dow) Rice; grandson of the late Judge Albert S. Rice; and brother of Captain Keryn ap Rice, all of Rockland, was decorated at a ceremony in the War Department, Dec. 24. A copy of the Citation follows:

The professional and technical skill and broad knowledge of ammunition supply displayed by this officer reflect great credit on himself and on the armed forces of the United States. Entered military service from New Jersey.

Wiggin Re-electedKnox Hospital Had 1636 Admissions Last Year; Patient
Days Increased By 1202

Ralph L. Wiggin was re-elected president at annual meeting last night.

Other officers elected were: Harold P. Blodgett, vice president; Joseph Emery, Sr., treasurer and Milton M. Griffin, secretary. Directors elected by the incorporators for three years: William T. White, Leforest A. Thurston, Dr. C. Harold Jameson, Mrs. Kathleen S. Fuller, Mrs. Mary Zimbalist and Ralph L. Wiggin; Alan L. Bird was elected to fill the unexpired term of Ensign Otis, resigned, and Harold P. Dana was elected to fill the unexpired term of Capt. John Brown.

President Wiggin spoke briefly of the activities at the hospital during the year, mentioning the discontinuance of the school for nursing, the excellent condition of the physical equipment and the need for more "human interest" especially that of the several hundred incorporators. He stressed the need of more incorporators. Brief talks for the good of the hospital were made by Dr. Jameson and Rev. Dr. John Smith Lowe.

The secretary's report was read by Milton M. Griffin and a report, showing very satisfactory financial condition, was presented by Joseph Emery, Sr., treasurer. Eleven incorporators were present. The nominating committee consisted of H. P. Blodgett, R. S. Sherman and Dr. John S. Lowe.

Mrs. Virginia S. Dunn, R. N., superintendent, who succeeded Miss Ellen C. Daly, R. N., who had served the hospital since May 7, 1930, presented a comprehensive report of the hospital for the 41st year since establishment.

Highlights of this report were the statement that there were 1636 admissions in 1943 as compared with 1180 in 1942; the number of patient days was increased by 1202; the average stay per occupancy was 36 as compared to 34 the previous year, and the average stay per patient was 12 days, exactly the same as in the year 1942.

The total operating expense was $78,227 as compared to $69,169. The gross income was $73,965 as compared to $65,983 last year; and increased cost of $1,076 over the previous year. The amount received from patients in 1943 was $73,064 as compared to $59,345 in 1942. State cases and maternal welfare was 68 as compared to 81 of a year ago. $3,867 represents the amount of free service contributed to the public welfare of the community.

The per capita cost, based on total expenditures in all departments was 47½ percent as compared to 46 percent in 1942. The daily per capita cost of provisions for all persons fed averaged 15½ cents as compared with 16½ cents in 1942.

It was necessary to suspend the school of nursing as it did not meet the requirements of the State board of nurse examiners. Five second year students were transferred to the Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston, Sept. 20, 1943. Four senior students were transferred to Lewiston, Nov. 20, 1943 to complete their training. A graduate staff has been employed to fill these vacancies.

Due to the higher cost of professional service, labor, materials, supplies and equipment, it was necessary to increase our hospital rates to help care for the increased cost of operation.

In the dietary department Miss Margaret Adams and her assistants have carried a heavier load than the previous year and most efficiently. Total diets were 73,070 as compared with 71,150 in 1942, but with a saving of $13.30 Miss Adams ably

IT CLOSES NEXT SUNDAYThis Is Final Week Of the Union Evangelistic
Crusade—The Interest Increases

The second and final week of the Union Evangelistic Crusade sponsored by the Protestant Churches of Rockland opened at the First Baptist Church Sunday with fine audiences at afternoon and evening services.

At the 3 o'clock service Mr. Gesswein dealt with some of his experiences in the great spiritual awakening in Norway in which he had some part just prior to the Nazi invasion of that beautiful country. He sought to show that prayer offered to God by those who had put Him first in their lives was responsible for Norway's wonderful revival. Mr. Gesswein's evening message was a challenge to know "the will of God for one's life. The speaker brought out the truth that it was possible for all to know God's will for their lives if they were willing to pay the price.

The singing by "Billy" Hoyt was an attractive and inspirational feature of the services. The union choir under his direction sang a message that was most helpful to the interested audience. Music, under Mr. Hoyt's direction will continue to be a strong feature of the services.

Tuesday night there are to be delegations from the churches of the surrounding towns. The Cottage prayer meetings will continue throughout the week at 10 o'clock. There will be a special Bible study session each afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mr. Gesswein giving an exposition from the Acts of the Apostles. There will be a prayer meeting each evening at 7 o'clock.

The services will continue with the exception of Saturday, and the Crusade will come to a close next Sunday evening.

The Bank MeetingsFirst National and Knox

Elects

The annual meeting of The First National Bank of Rockland was held at its banking rooms this morning when the following directors were elected: Fred A. Carter, Kennedy Crane, Joseph Emery, Edward P. Glover, Harold S. Leach, Joseph W. Robinson, William Sanborn and William D. Talbot. At the directors' meeting following, these officers were elected for the ensuing year: Joseph W. Robinson, president; Joseph Emery, vice president and cashier; and Chauncey M. D. Keene, assistant cashier.

President Robinson, in his report to the stockholders, said: "We close another year still operating under a war economy and wartime conditions. "With decreasing loans and corporate bonds which are the lowest in many years, we have turned to the U. S. Government bond market for investments, and find that 63% of our assets are in Government bonds and 31% in cash. Deposits continue to increase, and now amount to $3,890,750. However, our capital position is strong, amounting to $125,000 Common Stock, $177,000 Surplus and $68,257.14 Undivided Profits, or a total of $370,257.14.

"During the past year the bank has co-operated in every way with the O.P.A. and have handled many millions of points as a result of coupon Ration Banking. We have devoted much time to the sale of war bonds and are pleased to report that $594,653.50 have been purchased through the bank during the year just closed.

"We regret the loss, by death, of Director Philip L. Smith."

Knox County Trust Company

This banking institution today re-elected the following officers:

Herbert C. Newbegin, president; Elmer B. Crockett and Morris B. Perry, vice presidents; Lendon C. Jackson, Jr., treasurer; Harold S. Davis and Leon W. Sanborn, assistant treasurers.

Branch Managers—Harold S. Davis, Camden; John H. Williams, Union; Leon W. Sanborn, Vinalhaven.

Directors—Charles H. Berry, Putnam P. Bicknell, J. C. Creighton, Elmer B. Crockett, Alfred C. Hocking, A. C. McLoon, Lincoln E. Moore, H. C. Newbegin, Morris B. Perry, Charles E. Starrett and Arthur K. Walker.

In his annual address to the shareholders, President Newbegin said:

"The year 1943, the second full year of the war, has found your bank enjoying its full share of participation in the expanding volume of business activity. As you will note by the statement we have had another considerable increase in the total of deposits. This increase has enabled us to further assist in the requirements of the government for the raising of additional funds with which to prosecute the war to the fullest extent. Our investment in Government Securities has of necessity been confined largely to issues of short maturities.

"While gross earnings for 1943 have shown continued improvement they have been offset in some degree by the increased cost of doing business. However, net earnings for the year will be in a favorable position. While it is always dangerous to anticipate the future we believe that we are in a position to look forward to 1944 with confidence."

Mrs. Dunn, in closing her report stated: "I wish to express my appreciation to the board of trustees for confidence and support and to all the employees for their continued efficient co-operation. I wish to express my deep appreciation."

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

Mayor Hodgdon C. Buzzell of Belfast has been appointed Judge of Probate for Waldo County to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Elly Bowden. That meets with my approval if we don't have to call him Judge instead of "Hod."

Rev. Mr. Overman, the Rockport pastor who lost a cat, as noted in this column, writes:

"Yes, Martha the calico cat came home. A kind neighbor saw her outside the house and brought her home, which made household very happy. A number of people both in Rockland and Rockport have been very solicitous of her fate. We even received a call from Hotel Rockland, saying a cat that answered that description arrived to do with it. One of the men put there and they didn't know what it was, but it came right back in. I hope somebody else finds their pet. Thanks for everything."

Rockland is losing an old-time barbershop. It has been run by Irving Elwell for over 50 years. Lately the proprietor broke his wrist, which accident promises to handicap him in his work—Lewiston Journal.

And of course the State Chat editor intended no pun.

Despite the prolonged cold wave there is still open water in Lermond's Cove. It is hailed with glee by the seagull tenants, who probably get all cramped up sitting on the ice.

I now have no further excuse for mixing up my dates unless it is because I am bewildered by the beauty of the calendars which have been sent to The Black Cat. Among those to whom I am indebted are Ralph A. Spear of 134 Walnut street, Philadelphia, branch manager of the American National Cooperative Exchange; R. Adams of the Harvey Steel Company, Allston, Mass.; the Waldoboro Garage Co., The Bald Mountain Calendar Company and C. H. Moor & Co.

Someone sends me a copy of the Plymouth (N. H.) Record. I strongly suspect that the sender was my good friend Bill Foster, except that a former newspaper man would probably have marked what he wished me to see. Guilty or not guilty, Bill?

The Rotary Club

Rockland Rotary Club's ace orator, E. Carl Moran, was pinch hitter as speaker Friday, giving a clear presentation of the theories of municipal government.

"We are the power in government," the speaker said, and "public officials should know who is their boss." Stating that the "town meeting" form of government was pure democracy, he said that a city, such as Rockland, "is a form of representative government," and that he thought it "right that the council appoint the committee." He deplored "the utter lack of interest by the great mass of our citizens."

"The first thing that I would do would be to take the names of political parties from the ballot," Mr. Moran stated. He said that he was in favor of any municipality having a "planning board."

Mr. Moran was introduced by his former schoolmate, Joseph W. Robinson, president.

The speaker who is program chairman for January, announced that Harrison C. Greenleaf would speak before the club Jan. 14. Prof. Orren C. Hornell, professor of government at Bowdoin College, Jan. 21, and John Baxter of the Baxter packing company, Brunswick, Jan. 28. He also said that Kenneth C. Mills, president of Bowdoin College, would be the speaker Feb. 4 and that Elisabeth May Craig of Washington, columnist of one of Maine's daily papers, would probably appear before the club Feb. 24. Mrs. Craig is to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Moran for a few days.

Forty-five were present including Frank Morrow, president, and Allen Payson, secretary, of the Camden club, and Alan Stubbs of Springfield, Vt., and Philip C. French of Rockland and Charles E. West of the U. S. Navy, were guests of members.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

The Secret of Pooduck Island. By Alfred Noyes. Published by Frederick A. Stokes, New York. This English poet is a versatile gentleman with his pen.

Giving as many sides to his free flowing concepts of beauty, as one encounters in the glints of a well cut jewel placed in the sunshine is Mr. Noyes' production. In all his work he shows a quick and healthy sense of humor.

In this imaginative story, seated off the coast of Maine, we have the first of his children's books, which will not be confined to young minds, but enjoyed by all ages—those who get pleasure out of a creative skill in episodes portrayed, suggestive of fairyland, with birds and butterflies; small animals and fishes; with plenty of squirrels as we find here flourishing into a delightful tale.

One feels the poesy of his mind to every page of gentle appreciation in his thoughts. Pooduck Island has a boy, Solo by name, who has unusual love for and knowledge of animals. Squirrels are really the heroes and heroines of this charming story pictured by an artist, Flora Nash DeMuth, who has clever ability to catch the spirit of every incident as intended.

Alfred Noyes spends his Summers, when possible, on the coast of Maine, where he finds contentment and time to write. A charming bound volume and another book of quality to be added to the large library of works written on the lovely State of Maine, especially our islands. Kathleen S. Fuller.

"Under The Bridge," an autobiography. Author Ferris Greenslet. Publishers, Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

Not for many moons has a book come off the press with so much of mellow good-fellowship, intimate knowledge of men of affairs of this country and Europe and vivid literary aura of facts in historical presentation of having lived through them, as we find in this brilliant story of the period penetrated to the full by Ferris Greenslet.

In the new demand for quality by the reading public, which has been over-fed with light stuff, there is demand for real literature, and this we find in "Under The Bridge."

Mr. Greenslet, a shrewd literary valiant spirited artist, knows the publishing business in every mood and sidlight of its needs. He also is an historian of no mean calibre, with penetrating sense of values in a mind packed with orderly stores of brilliant memories.

The book shows an earnest heart for friendships with persons of parts. The author has caught me up in an aesthetic atmosphere, breathing a beauty of emotional thought seldom found in writings of today. His humor is charming in its serene finish. He delights in the subtle flavors of unusual words which brings the lethargic mind up with a round turn and a rush for the dictionary.

There is a mellow glow, all through, of good fellowship. His chapter about Park street affairs and connection with the Boston Publishing House of dignity is delightfully told. The author's love of life in the out-of-doors—fishing, mountain climbing, walks for health and all the elements that round out a he-man is a delight. Friendships with musicians, love of that greatest of the arts. His audacity in calling a man of literary acumen, a "magnificent old goat" gives a certain zest to the reading.

Mr. Greenslet's chief luxury in life is fishing; he is a full fledged artist in this sport.

His style is crisp and juicy with contagious fun—like a sense of enriched life at hand to the discouraged with his picturesque descriptions of events. He hits the target so straight it's easy to see the panorama in full and he gives high praise to writers of our land.

CLOSING TWO LARGE AIRPORTS

Consternation has been caused in the Northern part of the State by the Washington announcement that the Banger and Houlton air bases are to be closed, under a curtailment move. According to Senator Brewster the reason given for the War Department's action is that the number of bases to be used in the immediate future will be far fewer than during the early years of the war. In the course of an editorial, captioned "Cheap At The Price," the Banger Daily News yesterday said:

Can't the local protesters understand the significance of this statement? It is impossible that they DON'T WANT to understand it. Our Government constructed Dow Field military air-base at the cost of millions of dollars—and now we see that, most likely, it will never be needed for purposes of defense. BUT OUR GOVERNMENT WAS RIGHT. That defense-precaution would have been justified if a single enemy plane had ever adventured over this area. The precaution WAS justified because it was insurance against a war-possibility. The precaution was justified because, expensive though it proved, it was nevertheless that ounce of prevention which was better than a ton of cure.

With huge plants like those at Banger and Houlton going into the discard we are left to wonder what may be the fate of the Naval air stations, which has been in course of construction the past three years, and which is still lacking the finishing touches. Knox County was naturally much pleased that the Government should decide to spend so much money (well above a million dollars) within its borders, wondering all the while as to its ultimate fate. If it is to have a practical use, now or after the war, it will be well worth the lavish outlay, but if it is to remain merely in the role of a "white elephant"—But why speculate?

WENDELL WILLKIE WANING?

If the findings of the Gallup poll are to be seriously accepted as a forerunner of the approaching Presidential nomination Wendell Willkie's chances would appear to be on the wane. In his home State of Indiana, for instance, Willkie's percentage dropped from 30 in September to 22 today, while Dewey's increased from 30 in September to 35 today—all in spite of his repeated denials that he will be a candidate. This, of course, is only a straw but taken in conjunction with the showing in the East Central States (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan) cannot fail to carry a certain amount of conviction. The four most popular candidates in that group are Dewey, 37 percent; Bricker, 21; MacArthur, 15; and Willkie, 13. Bricker, of course, occupies the runner-up position, because of the large vote he would receive in his home State of Ohio. But Willkie in last place! We have been among Wendell Willkie's most sincere admirers from the moment he was nominated four years ago, and still consider him one of the world's ablest men, but we cannot blind ourselves to the fact that he has an enormous capacity for making enemies, a handicap which might spell the difference between a brilliant success next November or another in the long series of dreary defeats.

WITHOUT BRIDGE, WHAT?

Commenting upon the fact that more than 3000 cars crossed the Carlton Bridge within 24 hours, the Bath Times well says that it is doubtful if a system of ferrying could be developed to take care of it without causing delays that would have very detrimental results to the State's war efforts. The movement for a bridge at Bath across the Kennebec was started in 1920 by Luther Maddocks of Boothbay Harbor. The original bill called for a free bridge. In due course it became evident that this was impracticable of attainment. Senator Carlton finally consented to compromise on a toll bridge and the bridge resolve was adopted by an overwhelming vote. Nov. 15, 1927, the bridge was formally opened for traffic. Since that time through act of the Legislature the bridge has been made free of toll.

WE WILL ALL MISS EARL GODWIN

We are all pretty much given to daily following of the radio news commentators, and we all have our favorites. Among the latter, with a very large group of listeners, is Earl Godwin, whose appearance over Station WHDH from 8 to 8.15 each night was a source of profit and enjoyment to all who followed that broadcast. Godwin delivered his valedictory Friday night, and listeners will miss the kindly voice of the man who had the happy faculty of converting a prosaic news despatch into a human interest story.

REPUBLICANS ARE ALL AGOG

All eyes this week are focused on Chicago, where the preliminary plans are to be made for the approaching Republican National Convention. Where and when this convention will be held are, of course, subordinate to the question of who the nominees will be. The name of Gov. Earl Warren of California has been added to the list of possibilities, and his name will be used in the California primary election in May, but the popular Western executive is modest enough to be satisfied with the vice presidential nomination if it comes his way.

WILL HE OPPOSE OWEN?

That astute Lewiston newspaper man, Sam E. Conner, who has long been endeavoring to decide the political fate of Gov. Sewall, now hears a rumor that he may decide to oppose U. S. Senator Brewster two years hence. There being any likelihood to this one is left to wonder whether Gov. Sewall concludes that he stands a better show of beating Brewster, with the disheveled name, than he does in downing Representative Hale, who still clings to his front name of "Robert." The two horns of the dilemma lie therein.

The heavy snowfall has forced many WALK ON THE PEDESTRIANS into the street. For their own welfare let us hope they will obey the injunction so often stressed in this paper, namely, to walk on the left hand side of the road. If this advice mystifies you, ask any motorist.

American Travelers are the world's best sports!

The people who run your railroads know it!

THEY'VE seen a soldier take care of a mother's baby, to give her a chance to go to the dining car.

They've seen a mother give up the extra berth she had bought for her little girl—so that a soldier could have it.

They've seen cars full of travelers still cheerful, after being held up a full hour on a side track—to let emergency troop trains pass.

THEY'VE seen people standing in line to buy their tickets—uncomplaining, because they know that wartime ticket offices cannot be staffed with enough trained agents to keep pace with wartime travel.

They've seen diners make the best of substitutions on the menu—grumbling a little, maybe, but realizing that they also have shortages at home.

They've seen strangers helping each other to get their luggage off the cars—because there are too few porters to give everybody service.

THEY'VE seen a sailor, after sitting up all night in a day coach, jump to his feet as a little old lady came down the aisle.

They've seen men and women vacate a car without a murmur—when they were asked to find seats in other cars as best they could, to make room for inductees.

They've seen people sitting on the arms of seats—talking, joking and laughing in overcrowded cars.

Little things...not of vital importance in themselves, perhaps. But added together, multiplied a thousandfold, they make railroad people proud to do their level best to take care of the traveling public.

WITH railroad facilities overburdened as never before it is not possible today to make even necessary wartime travel as comfortable as peacetime travel. But you can be sure that nothing will be left undone, that can be done, to ease your travel.

A public like the American Public gives the railroads something to live up to!

Limerock Pomona

Two Interesting Programs Presented At All-Day Session Here Saturday

Limerock Valley Pomona met Saturday at Grand Army hall, with Pleasant Valley Grange as host. Pomona Master, George Cunningham called the meeting to order, and after the usual routine of business was disposed of, a program was presented by the host lecturer, Raymond Andersen, who obliged by taking over in the absence of the Pomona lecturer. Readings, stories, musical numbers, remarks, etc., preceded the speaker, F. L. S. Morse, who had for his topic, "The Island of Puerto Rico." He described the location, geographic and otherwise, government, education, production, exports and habits of the people, its outstanding leader, and his influence with the people, and gave in detail so interesting to his listeners, that one could easily visualize each description clearly. He brought the important part these people play in the present conflict.

Supper was served by the host Grange ladies, Mrs. Nettie Farrand, Elizabeth Vinal, Etta Andersen. At the evening session W. M. Cunningham introduced Brother James Dornan and his aides for installation, Albert Goss, marshal, Mrs. Goss, emblem bearer, Mrs. Dornan, regalia bearer, Mildred Philbrook, chaplain.

The officers are: Worthy Master, Willis Young; overseer, Lloyd Richardson; lecturer, Lucia Hopkins; steward, F. L. S. Morse; assistant steward, Leonard Ames; gatekeeper Fred Rice; Ceres, Myrtle Farnham; Flora, Alice Grant; Pomona, Sara Young; lady steward, Una Ames; executive committee, Ellena Fredette, George Cunningham. The chaplain will be installed at a later date.

A short program was presented, consisting of remarks from the visiting members, musical selections, greetings, etc., and closed with singing of the hymn, "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and a moment of silent prayer, for the safe return of those reported as missing and as casualties. It was resolved, that we never will give up the thoughts, other than the return of these brothers.

The next meeting will be in February with Megunticook of Camden. It is expected the new State Master, Carroll Bean will be present.

Lonesome For Maine

And Lonesome For Mail, "the Greatest Morale Builder" Writes Dr. Soule

The Rockland Lions Club is in receipt of the following letter from one of its absent members, Dr. Gilmore W. Soule, who is now stationed at the Army Air Base, Alamogordo, New Mexico:

A very belated note to say I hope you all had a jolly Christmas and to wish you the very best of New Years, and I want to thank you for the very nice "going away" gift and also the Christmas present you so kindly sent me. I don't know what I would have done so far without them. One poor but plausible excuse for not writing sooner is that I have been moving about the country quite rapidly, and only now am finally set for a while.

I'm in the Station Hospital here. It's about 65° in day time but you need a top coat outdoors and blankets, in bed, every night. Had some snow the night of the 26th which lasted a few hours.

The work is interesting and we have a fine, well trained group of doctors and dentists at the hospital who are taking good care of the boys.

The geography here is pretty when you look at the mountains but hardly any vegetation about the base — and I was disappointed with the Mississippi and the Rio Grande rivers! crossed the Mississippi in Iowa—and the Rio Grande is only 84 miles from here in El Paso—The Mississippi is only a stream and the Rio Grande a mud puddle compared with some of the rivers in Maine.

I've seen New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico and Texas so far. And I'll still take the State of Maine rain or shine, fog, snow, hail, sleet—even the dim out.

Well, any way the Army is doing a good job. Some of the men don't get to do what they were doing in civilian life and I think teachers, especially, have a tough break, but there is very little complaining and almost everyone is interested in getting the darned thing over with by doing the best job possible as soon as possible.

I've run into a surprising number of people whom I know or who know some one I know. Met a Sergeant just yesterday who was a fraternity brother of mine at Bowdoin. Col. Bostrom from Bangor, Maine is the Commanding Officer of the base here (he flew MacArthur from the Philippines to Australia you recall). Met a young

An Oldtime Wreck

Only Two Survivors When Sch. Juliette Went Onto Fawn Bar In '86

Schooner Juliette (186 tons) Capt. Benjamin P. Leach, hailing from Ellsworth, bound from Frankfort for New York ran ashore on Deer Island ledge, near the North end of Fawn Bar near midnight, Jan. 9, 1886.

A heavy sea soon drove the men into the rigging. Soon after the masts went by the board Capt. Leach, mate and three seamen were washed away.

At daybreak the wreck was sighted by the guards on Deer Island with two men still alive. In attempting to launch a lifeboat, it would be upset. After some time they reached the vessel bringing the men ashore.

The two men were Winford Milliken of Fullerton's Point, four miles below Ellsworth, and Philip Trewhorgy of East Surry.

The following June, the body of Capt. Leach was found near Deer Island, and identified by his initials worked on his mittens by his wife. The mittens were still on his hands.

Capt. Leach was a veteran of the Civil War, serving under DeLong in the Navy for a long time. He was a capable Master mariner, liked by all.

He is buried in the Remick Cemetery at Fullerton's Point.

One of the Medical Administrative Officers is a cousin to Horace Hildreth by marriage (Horace Hildreth was a fraternity brother of mine at Bowdoin). So you see in spite of being 3000 miles from home—it's a small world.

However, I'm pretty lonesome for Maine and I'm sincere when I say that mail is the biggest morale builder in the Army. Gil Soule

William R. Walter

Prominent in Industry, the Church and Fraternities, a Good Man Has Gone

In the death of William R. Walter of North Waldo, the town loses one of its beloved and familiar figures. Jan. 2d, just after the turn of the New Year, Mr. Walter died at his home at the age of 87 years. For many years a mill owner and lumberman, well known for his support of the religious and civic affairs of the community, Mr. Walter was most widely known for his contributions to The Courier-Gazette and to the Waldoboro Press.

Mr. Walter was the son of George Walter and Katherine (Gross) and spent his entire life in the town. He graduated from the local schools and attended Mrs. Oake's Finishing School. He was also a graduate of the Shaw Business College in Manchester, N. H. In 1897 he was married to Addie Sidelinger and spent a very happy married life, celebrating his golden wedding anniversary in 1937.

Soon after his marriage he built a sawmill which he operated for many years. In his 84th year he saw approximately 100,000 feet of long lumber, and the same year brought out a slim volume of poetry at the request of his many friends. In social and civic life he contributed richly to the community. He had served his town as a member of the school board and his State as a member of the Legislature. He was a member of Maple Grange, the Eastern Star, Germania Lodge of Odd Fellows and the Masonic Lodge. At the time of his death he was the oldest living member of King Solomon Lodge of Waldoboro. He was also a member of the Chapter and the Council. With him his church always held first place.

He is survived by his wife, who, to quote his own words, "was always my greatest asset," a daughter, Ruby Miller; six grandchildren, and three nephews and nieces.

Services were held at the late home, Wednesday, with Rev. May Gibson and Rev. J. C. Collind officiating. Interment was in the Rural cemetery.

The passing of Mr. Walter recalls a poem which he once wrote, "Never to Die." The first stanzas tell why he could never die in Spring, on a Summer's day, or in Autumn. In his own words:

He will not let me die at all. Winter, Summer, Spring, nor Fall; In Jesus arms I'll fall asleep. Trusting him my soul to keep— Then the Author's face I'll see, And dwell with Him eternally.

—Waldoboro Press.

Eliminate Wasps
A poison bait can be used to rid the attic of wasps. Stir a teaspoonful of paris green into a cupful of syrup or honey. After mixing well, spread the mixture on small pieces of bread or heavy paper, and put the bait where it can easily be found by the wasps, which will eventually die of the poison. Be sure the bait is out of reach of children.

Cluster flies and other small insects can be kept out of homes by proper precautions in the autumn. They can squeeze through openings apparently smaller than their bodies. Stuff cracks around windows and screens with cotton to prevent their entrance.

A pyrethrum spray will kill or stupefy any of these attic insects. Wet the bodies thoroughly and they will either die or fall to the floor where they may be swept up. In the spring when the insects are anxious to get out of doors, simply open the attic windows, but be sure to close them again before the pests return in the evening.

HATS OFF TO WINSTON CHURCHILL

"Little Known Facts About Well Known People"

WINSTON CHURCHILL is half American, yet he is probably the most vital and astonishing Englishman now alive.

It is doubtful whether any other man on this earth has packed so much excitement and adventure into 69 years. For a third of a century, he has wielded enormous power and influence. Thirty-two years ago, he was the First Lord of the Admiralty. For a third of a century, he has been moulding men and events, and having a rip roaring good time doing it.

Even as a child, Churchill longed to be a soldier. He graduated from the famous military college at Sandhurst in England, the West Point of Great Britain, and spent years as a professional soldier, fighting with the Bengal Lancers in India and with Kitchener in the Sudan desert.

Winston Churchill became famous for his audacity and courage as a war correspondent. In fact, his daring and bravery made him so famous that he was elected to Parliament when he was only 26 years old. It happened like this: Back in 1899, he dashed off to South Africa as a war correspondent. Winston Churchill became the most famous war correspondent in British history. He not only reported news. He made news by dashing through enemy territory in an armored train which was attacked by cannon fire. Later he was captured by the Boers and thrown into prison. He made a sensational escape from the prison camp, which enraged the Boers. They had lost the most famous prisoner of the War—Winston Churchill, the son of an English Lord. A huge reward was offered for his capture—dead or alive. Churchill traveled hundreds of miles through enemy territory, and made good his escape. The story of Churchill's escape caused England to welcome him home as a national hero.

Churchill has long had as his motto, "Never run away from danger." Instead of running away from danger, Churchill frequently ran toward it. In 1911, only eight years after man had flown for the first time, when every flight was a gamble with death, Churchill insisted on flying himself. He piloted his own plane and was in crash after crash, escaping death by inches. The Government urged him to stop flying but he refused to do so. He foresaw even then, 32 years ago, that planes would revolutionize warfare. Churchill was almost solely responsible for building up the air force of the British navy.

As a young man, he was a very poor scholar, and despised Latin, Greek, mathematics and French. He passionately believed that one ought to first master English before spending time on foreign languages. Here is an odd fact. The boy who stood at the bottom of his classes and despised mathematics, later became Chancellor of the Exchequer. He tried three times to get into the Royal military college at Sandhurst the West Point of Great Britain. He failed three times, and finally passed the fourth time he tried.

At 69 years of age, Churchill works from 14 to 17 hours a day with tremendous drive and vitality keeping six secretaries busy. He doesn't get out of bed until 10:30 in the morning. For three hours before getting up, he lies propped up in bed, a fat cigar between his teeth, reading newspapers, reports and the news. At ten o'clock he gets up and shaves himself with an old-fashioned razor. He lunches at one o'clock, then goes back to bed and sleeps for an hour. Then he starts by dashing through enemy territory in an armored train which was attacked by cannon fire. Later he was captured by the Boers and thrown into prison. He made a sensational escape from the prison camp, which enraged the Boers. They had lost the most famous prisoner of the War—Winston Churchill, the son of an English Lord. A huge reward was offered for his capture—dead or alive. Churchill traveled hundreds of miles through enemy territory, and made good his escape. The story of Churchill's escape caused England to welcome him home as a national hero.

For years, most British statesmen slept, utterly oblivious to the coming war that was to overwhelm the world. While they slept, Winston Churchill sensed the grave peril of Hitler. For six years, from 1933 to 1939, Churchill cried out that Hitler was building tanks, guns and planes, to bomb Britain, sink the English Fleet and conquer the world. If England had only listened to his prophetic voice and armed to meet the menace, the world would probably be at Peace today.

Friends will be interested to learn that Alice and Adelaide, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Cinqmars have graduated from the Sisters Hospital in Waterville, and that the former has enlisted in the Army Nurses Cadet Corps. The son, Robert, in the Army, is taking a specialized course in French at the Syracuse New York University.

Miss Jean Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kimball, a graduate of the University of Maine, is employed at Belgrade High School as teacher of English.

Guests Saturday of Susie M. Hahn and Joseph W. Hahn were, Sadie H. Egle and Daniel R. Yates of Camden. While in town they also called on George G. Teague and several other friends.

The Congregational Ladies Circle will serve public supper Thursday. In charge are: Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, Mrs. Catherine Moody, Mrs. Mary Halligan, Mrs. Olive Boggs and Mrs. Mildred Starrett.

The postponed meeting of the Baptist Women's Mission Circle will be held Thursday at the parsonage. Two feet of snow fell in this town during the storm. No schools were in session Friday.

Women in Club Work

Seventeen members of the Woman's Club attended the meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Florence Kimball. The official call to the Maine Federation of Women's Clubs for the meeting, Jan. 20-21 in Augusta, was read by the secretary. The quilt, gift of Mrs. Elsie Wallace, was accepted, and this committee appointed to dispose of it: Mrs. Edna Moore, Mrs. Helen Maxcy and Mrs. Mary Halligan. The annual American Home program which is put on yearly by the committee including Mrs. Grace Wyllie and Mrs. Alice Buck, was given following the business meeting.

Numbers: Reading of the Edgar Guest poem, "The Harbor Lights of Home" by Mrs. Wyllie; the singing of old favorites, with Robert Wyllie at the piano. Mrs. Kimball read the poems, "Small Town Sympathy" and "The Complacent Cliff Dweller" by Margaret Fishback; piano solos, "The Green Citadel" and "The Londerderry Air," played by Robert Wyllie.

Speaker was Mrs. A. S. Bishop, her subject, "The Canadian Home," with stress on the Maritime Provinces. She told of E. Pauline Johnson, the Canadian Indian poetess, and read one of her poems, "The Song of the Paddle." She pointed out that like the United States Canadians of that area had faith, the love of learning, and a great capacity of work, that they knew the value of religious training, and believed in industry. In conclusion, Mrs. Kimball sang, "My Little House," and "The Hoot Owl," with Mrs. Wyllie her accompanist.

World Small Place
The world is a small place after all, judging by the size of particles, such as electrons, that make up all matter. Westinghouse research physicists, who smash atoms to learn more about matter, say that if an orange and an electron could be magnified until the orange was as large as the world, the electron would still be invisible.

Tattooed Man From Maine
The Courier-Gazette, "Tattooed Man," had its origin in the fact that one of the New York weekly illustrated magazines printed a cartoon representing James G. Blaine as Phryne, before the Athenian judges, and tattooed with the names of the political scandals with which his name had been connected.

Infant Mortality Slashed
Only 1 out of every 14 deaths in Wisconsin last year was that of a child less than one year of age, compared to one out of every five deaths in the state 30 years ago. Part of the difference is credited to a trailer school-house which visits rural communities to teach child and maternal health.

Man of War Biography
Man of War, Seabiscuit and Gargantuan, according to Collier's, are the only animals whose biographies have been written by the press associations and are on file, ready for immediate publication upon their death, in the office of more than 2,000 newspapers.

Bone-Crusher Handshake
Beware of the bone-crushing handshake, says Dr. Joseph Randall of Mount Vernon, N. Y. He has been studying handshakes and personalities for 15 years, and he says, the bone-crusher is a dominating fellow who will stop at nothing.

One Use for Newspapers
Lacking a regular rug pad, try putting newspapers under your large rugs. Several layers spread flat will help to save wear, make the floor warmer and give a nice soft tread when walking over the rugs.

Nearby Laundry
Having a laundry adjacent to the kitchen simplifies household chores. It eliminates many weary steps and enables the housewife to keep a watchful eye on her cooking while doing her washing.

Breakfast Orange Juice
Breakfast orange juice prepared the night before may lose some freshness of flavor, but it will not lose appreciable amounts of vitamin C if stored in a refrigerator.

Fireless Pair
For a fireless conversational grouping try a pair of small mahogany Victorian chairs, skirted and draped on either side of a friendly fire.

Dim Lights
Thirty-five states have laws requiring that headlights be dimmed when another vehicle approaches from the opposite direction.

BOMBARDIER QUEEN! First just one graduating class of bombardiers at Kirtland Field made the RKO Radio star, Anne Shirley, their "Queen," because she flew to Albuquerque, N. M., to attend their class banquet. But since she appeared as heroine of the big movie "Bombardier," she's been made "Bombardier Queen" or "Bombardier Sweetheart" by ten graduating classes, and eighteen groups of combat bombardiers. Anne also appears in "Government Girl."

THE MAN BEHIND THE MAN BEHIND THE BOMB RELEASE

Lined up for a last minute inspection in the huge Boeing kitchen are the new streamlined, stainless steel Vitamin Vans, each filled with sufficient food for 250 workers, and replete from seasoning to paper cups.

It's feeding time at Boeing, and the Vitamin Vans roll into position spaced 250 feet apart. In that way, no employee need walk but a few steps for his food.

Alert attendants serve workers hot, nutritious meals in quick order from one of Boeing's twenty food conveyors.

Good food is the power behind the home front soldier. An army travels on its stomach—both in the war theatre and in the war plant!

WICHITA, KANSAS—It's a far cry from a B-17 hovering over Japan installations on Rabaul to the mammoth Boeing Airplane plants in this city where the death-dealing bomber is turned out in ever increasing numbers. It is here, at the Boeing plants, that the man-behind-the-bomb-release works with thousands of others to efficiently and precisely make the weapon that hurries sudden death down on Rabaul and Berlin. Here, then, in Wichita, the heart of America, is beating the heart of America's control of the air.

The man-behind-the-bomb-release is an average hardworking, victory-bent, patriotic American, who is battling on the Home Front as valiantly as his brother is battling on the War Front. Both these soldiers need the best in equipment and nourishment. The soldier on the War Front can get no better fighting equipment than the soldier on the Home Front can supply. Likewise, the latter needs the same fighting strength.

Cotton Insulation

Low-grade short staple cotton not required for military or other fabrics has found a use as cotton insulation. It was used for insulating maintenance buildings along the Alcan highway and it is now being used for trailer or "knock down" houses for defense communities, refrigerator cars, refrigerators and for some marine construction.

This cotton insulation is flame-proofed with an effective chemical solution which also repels rats, mice and household insects as well as preventing mildew. Specifications require it to be at least three-quarters of an inch thick, but it may weigh less than one ounce to the board foot. If there is a supporting backing, it must be flexible and repel moisture. After installation, the cotton does not sag.

There are seven firms in the United States that are manufacturing cotton insulation, and retail merchants now sell it by the batt or roll and about 1,000 square feet will insulate an average attic.

Job or Career

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

ARE you building a career or are you only holding a job? There's a difference—all the difference between success and failure.

The man who is doing the work he was hired to do is useful to his company. If he does a little more than is expected of him, he may hope for a raise. He can at least be sure of steady employment as long as business is good.

A career is something else. That is the progress of a man who makes himself valuable by specialized knowledge and the development of special abilities that apply to some whole field of activity—engineering, accounting, shop management. The career man takes his place among the leaders of his business and his community because he has a "know-how" that is needed under any circumstances, needed most of all to help other men meet changing circumstances.

The career man does his job as well as any job holder; usually he does it better. A career begins with a job, but it doesn't end there.

Your job can be a springboard, if you will use it for one. You need to learn more than your own immediate work demands. That can be done only by study in your spare time. If such study is related to your present work, you will gain more from it than you could gain in most cases by quitting work to go back to school. The most rapid progress is made when study is brought to bear, day by day, on the practical problems of business and industry.

That is the way to outgrow your job, to get the "know-how" you need for handling bigger responsibilities. When you have developed the ability, you'll get the responsibility. There are never enough men to take it.

And when you've outgrown your job in that way, you've begun a career.

List Fundamental Rules For High Quality Eggs

There are several fundamental rules of management for growers to follow in producing highest quality eggs.

Proper production methods should include having stock, broys for egg production, free of disease, properly fed and housed, together with good sanitation and proper care of eggs after they are laid.

High grade eggs should weigh 24 ounces per dozen, have a good shell texture, be reasonably free of watery whites, and otherwise possess good internal quality.

It is important that the flock be properly fed on a balanced ration, since the egg is manufactured from the food given the bird. Proper housing and equipment is needed to avoid production of dirty eggs. Clean eggs are not only in demand by the consumer of fresh shell eggs but also by the egg drying plants.

Scattered Industry

There is one point which most countries have in common. That is, their industries are scattered in different regions. Look at Britain. It has at least six industrial districts: the London district, the Central district, the Newcastle district, the Scottish Lowlands, the South Wales district, and the Belfast district. Germany also has six districts: the Berlin district, the Ruhr district, the Saxony district, the Silesia district, the Bohemia district, and the South Germany district. In Soviet Russia, besides the Leningrad district, the Moscow district, and the South Ukraine district which had been fairly well developed before the first five-year plan was put into effect, there are developed further east some new manufacturing districts, such as the Ural district and the Altai district. Even in Japan, you can distinguish at least four manufacturing districts: the Tokyo-Yokohama district, the Nagoya district, the Osaka-Kobe district, and the Northern Kyushu district.

Seven Up, Seven Down Popcorn M'l's-Sweets

Wherein the Vinalhaven Ganders Lose Their Faith In the "Lucky Seventh"

Fun with the family every day—popping corn the e-a-s-y way!

● You don't need any special gadget to make delicious fluffy popped corn. You don't need to use up precious butter, either. Spry-popped corn is so tasty, tender and nut-sweet—so inexpensive—and so easy to make, using just a heavy skillet or kettle. Why not gather the family 'round tonight and have a popcorn treat?

For a special dessert, for parties or holiday celebrations, make Popcorn M'l's-Sweets and just watch the big smiles. These popular confections, Molasses Popcorn Balls are crisp and chewy, delightful with hot or cold drinks. (Popcorn, you know, is also a wholesome food, high in protein and energy values.)

Everybody loves popped corn and popcorn balls. They're an old American custom. Clip the recipe and enjoy some yourself.

Spry-Popped Corn

1/4 cup Spry 1 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup popcorn
Melt Spry in heavy skillet or kettle and add popcorn. Sprinkle salt over corn and stir until first kernel pops. Cover and shake until all kernels are popped.

Molasses Popcorn Balls

1 cup molasses 1 teaspoon vinegar
1 cup sugar 4 quarts Spry
1/2 cup water 1 popped corn
Combine molasses, sugar, water and vinegar, and place over low fire. Cook, with continuous stirring, until a small amount of syrup forms a hard ball in cold water (270°F.). Remove from fire. Pour slowly and evenly over Spry-popped corn, mixing well.

Fashion into large balls, immediately. When cool, wrap in waxed paper. Makes six 2 1/2-inch balls.

Orange blossoms are not the exclusive property of brides. In the south they are crushed to bring out the flavor as strongly as possible and are used in making many puddings, ices and other desserts. They are also candied whole as are violets.

NATURE STUDIES: THE CROW

(For The Courier-Gazette)
That sly and crafty bird the crow,
Is always round where gardens grow.
No blacker skinned thief than he,
Did ever roost in lofty tree
Or pull up squash or sprouting pea.
It seems to me,
He surely knows the thieving art,
In honest ways he has no part.
He takes his long pickpocket's jaw
To pull up corn and fill his maw,
I often hear his loud guffaw,
Caw, caw, caw, caw.

I had a garden on the Neck,
I sowed some seed about a week.
It came up nice, the field was green,
And then the crows they stripped it clean.
They didn't leave a single bean
Upon the scene.

They'll chase him fair or chase him foul,
They dearly love to chase an owl.
They gather in an army strong,
They always have their battle song.
Caw, caw, caw, caw.

If crows have virtues, tell me some,
For on that side I'm simply dumb.
I'd like to bat them on the nose,
And tear their glossy funeral clothes,
And wring their necks—do you suppose
I don't like crows?

BEYOND THE SUNSET

(For The Courier-Gazette)
Beyond the setting sun the shadows wait,
So soon they come and quietly pass by.
Before me, gold and crimson form a glory gate,
Behind, those purple shadows darken evening's sky.
Somewhere, beyond the sunset clouds of gold,
Live all the joys that man has ever known.
Bird songs and summer clouds piled fold on fold,
Yes, there our choicest birds have safely flown.

Fair flower faces 'mid waving grasses dance
By dimpling rivers wandering on their way,
And swift bright wings across the landscape glance,
All lovely things can there securely stay.

Oh, this I know, when sunset colors fade,
They rise to shine upon a fairer shore!
Fulfilling thus the law which God has made,
Retold for us in glory as of yore.
And thus 'twill be when ends the sunset trail,
When twilight bids goodbye to dawn's bright light,
Knowing no night can ever His brightness veil,
I turn and walk content into the night.

A HAPPY, HAPPY NEW YEAR

(For The Courier-Gazette)
A Happy, Happy New Year
Our hearts send out to you.
A Happy, Happy New Year
May skies again be blue.
As with a heaven-born courage
Which knows no doubt or fear,
We march along to victory
In store for us this year.

The flame of hope burns brightly,
Our confidence is strong—
"We cannot fail, our cause is just"
This is our freedom's song.
The clouds are lifting slowly,
The light of peace shines through,
When we shall feel its soothing warmth
Is up to me and you.

We have a task unfinished
We must not loiter here,
But with God's help press onward
And win the war this year.

Yes, a Happy, Happy New Year,
Our hearts send out again
As in our prayer we whisper
"Peace on earth, good will to men."

Camden High opened the Hoop League Season Thursday with a double victory over Lincoln Academy. The lassies of Camden came out on top with a 36-27 score with A. Galanti pacing the team with 22 points. It was a fast and hard fought game from start to finish. Lincoln Academy led at the first quarter 10-7. The Camden girls came to the front in the second quarter and held the lead throughout the game. At the end of the half it was 18 to 16 and still anybody's game. The last half Camden kept well in front and at the final whistle the score was 36-27. The Camden Girls are looking forward to their game with Thomaston Friday night and promise to put up a hard fight. The boys in a comparatively slower game trounced their Lincoln Academy guests to the tune of 35-16. Ray Allen, acting captain of the home team was high scorer with 11 points to his credit. Thomaston Basketball

Thomaston High and Crosby High of Belfast met head on at Thomaston last Friday night, the local lads after a hard battle came out on top 21-19.

The first quarter was hard and fast, but the score at the end of it was 2 to 1, in favor of Thomaston. The second period saw things pick up, and at the end of the half the Pikes were still in front, 12 to 7.

In the third period little scoring was done, but the ball flew all over the floor at a high speed. Crosby's rally fell short, and Thomaston still led 15 to 14 now.

With about three minutes to go, Al Horne, Belfast captain, was out on fouls, followed very shortly by Captain Russ Kelley of Thomaston. Lynch, local center, was laid out immediately afterward, but stayed in. The Pikes finally got their hands on the ball and kept it in their possession until the final whistle. Horne was high man for Belfast with 10 points, while Kelley and Lynch were high for the Pikes with eight points apiece.

The guards on both teams, Merrill and Stone for Crosby, and Kangas and Reilly played outstanding defensive games throughout.

The score:
Thomaston 21
Gross, lf 3 2 8
Beattie, rf 0 0 0
Sullivan, rf 0 0 0
Lynch, c 4 0 8
Reilly, lg 0 0 0

BUY U.S. WAR BONDS

WASHINGTON—AND YOU

By Margaret Chase Smith

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congress reconvened Monday, after a three-week recess. Some members have been at home talking with constituents about problems in the District, while others have remained here studying the many difficult issues which will confront us after we reconvene, Jan. 10. Because 1944 will probably be the destiny year of our lives, Congress will be faced with the most difficult decisions of all time. This will include the soldiers vote bill, the muster-out pay bill, subsidies, appropriations, rehabilitation of service people, renegotiation and tax legislation.

As this seems to be a turning point in the war, there is also considerable consideration by Congress and other Government officials about termination of war contracts and reconversions, and how surplus materials acquired or made by the Government will be handled. There are several bills on this subject on my desk.

One suggestion has come to me from a constituent, relating to surplus which might be of help on farms. I have turned it over to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and will discuss it with Representative Hale, of Maine, who is on a committee considering surplus material legislation.

The constituent is a farmer who says that all farm improvements have had to be delayed during the war. But he wants to make them as soon as possible which will mean he must have some equipment, and

Rubinstein Coffee

New Years morning at 10:30 the Rubinstein Club members gathered at the Community Building for their musical program and coffee. Be-cause of the prevailing colds and influenza the program was much shorter than planned. Dorothy Havener, home from the New Eng-land Conservatory of Music for the Christmas season, delighted the members with her brilliant piano numbers. The first was Debussy's First Arabesque which she played with a mastery of poise and tech-nique, showing her training and musicianship in memorizing her difficult numbers, and with her de-lightfully liquid notes and charm of execution. Her second number was Schubert's Serenade.

Piano duet by Mrs. Edna Rollins and Mrs. Louie Rogers: a Invita-tion a la Valse, Weber; b Priosto March, from Athalia Mendelssohn, with the rest of the program im-provised. Then came coffee, sand-wiches and doughnuts. Mrs. Norma Anderson poured, while the other members of the committee, Mrs. Faith Berry, Mrs. Louie Rogers, Mrs. Nathalie Snow and Miss Dor-othy Lawry assisted. The tables were lighted with candles, and in the midst of the silver and appointment sat a lovely cherub with a Happy New Year greeting.

Patriotic songs were enjoyed and a thoroughly delightful event the New Year Coffee proved to be. Some extra entertainment was pro-pelled into the occasion, to the pleasure of all.—K. S. F.

SPRUCE HEAD

After the most severe snow storm for many years, this village was finally plowed out late Saturday afternoon. It was practically iso-lated from late Thursday night until Saturday afternoon, with no mail Friday. Mr. Archer did a fine job in getting the mail through Saturday, walking through drifts 18 inches high, from Clark Island to the South Thomaston Post Office, with the mail bag slung over his shoulder. He left Clark Island at 9:30 a. m. and reached South Thomaston at 2:20 p. m. by way of Waterman's Beach. Good work, Mr. Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Milledge Ran-dall and daughter Mildred were supper guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. John McKenzie.

Stephanie, infant daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Robert Wolf was christ-ened Sunday at St. Bernard's Church in Rockland, with Miss Eleanor Morton and Rodney Mur-phy of Rockland as godparents.

Mrs. Fred C. Battly, Sr. has as guests five grandchildren, Bobby, Danny, and Floyd McLeod of Port-land whose mother is ill; and Bobby and Ardella Singer of Port-land whose father, Floyd Singer, is ill with pneumonia.

Miss Violet Carr of South Thom-aston has been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Burton for several days.

She was married April 13, 1887 to Walter T. Prescott, who died 19 years ago. They made their home in Richmond, Va., and Bal-timore for many years, returning about 23 years ago to Rockland.

Mrs. Prescott is survived by two brothers, Herman E., and Edwin S. Tibbetts of Rockland, and a sister, Mrs. Lillian H. Breen of Augusta, and several nephews, nieces and other relatives. Interment will be in Achorn cemetery in the Spring.

These girls are training to be aerographer's mates — the "weather girls" of the WAVES. After a 12 weeks' course, during which they receive instruction in the operations of weather observation, such as the use of meteorological instruments, charts, weather codes, etc., they'll wear the rating badge shown in the inset. The girl at the right is adjusting a theodolite to check rate of ascension and drift of the balloon which the other WAVE is about to release. These are among the many interesting win-the-war jobs open to American girls from 20 to 36, who have had two years' high or business school education, are in good health and who can furnish good character references.

the writer for her Christmas joy—a beautifully constructed dinner-table decoration, all from nature's lavish gifts of charm and loveliness for our Winter's enjoyment; and all from the deep woods with one exception, a vine growing up into and over a tree, and lovely with its bittersweet red berries en-cased in golden petals of crisp shells.—K. A Turkish Legend

A certain Pasha dead five thousand years, Once from his harem fled in sud-den tears, And had this sentence on the city gate Deeply engraven: "Only God is great." So these four words above the city's noise Hung like the accents of an angel's voice. And evermore, from the high bar-bican, Saluted each returning caravan . . . Lost in that city's glory. Every gust Lifts, with dead leaves, the unknown Pasha's dust, And all is ruin—save one wrinkled gate Whereon is written: "Only God is Great."

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

A pretty good example of "fol-lowing copy" was given by Vice President Wallace when reading his prepared speech recently. Along about the middle of the speech he read these words: "At this point tell a humorous story." This did the trick better than the humorous story.

Review Of The Year

Presented At Meeting Of Rockland's Hard Of Hear-ing Society

Mrs. Gladys Thomas was hostess to Rockland Society for the Hard of Hearing Thursday. The year's ac-tivities were reviewed by Miss Maude Marsh, recording secretary, and gifts to Miss Corbett for wel-fare work and to the County War Chest were reported.

Mrs. Richard McGill, Eastern Zone vice president, in a release to all zone chapters, announced that the American Society for the Hard of Hearing will celebrate its silver anniversary this year.

Excerpts from a paper, "Hearing and the war" given in Boston re-cently by Miss Betty Wright, exec-utive director of the A.S.H.H., told of the interest centered in the war deafened. In World War I there were 240,000 soldiers permanently deafened. In the present conflict, because of new developments in modern warfare and the extension of aerial combat a much greater number of cases may be expected.

At the end of the first war all the help given the returning soldiers with severe hearing loss was that of lip reading. Now a national so-ciety with 25 years experience is vitally interested in the plans the government is making for their re-habilitation. The national head-quarters is in close touch with the War Department whose Recon-ditioning Unit operates three hospi-tals to which deafened soldiers are taken.

The first help comes from the medical division where everything possible is done to effect a cure; if not curable they go to the acoustic division where advice about a hear-ing aid is given; then to the lip reading division. After this the Red Cross steps in with plans for recrea-tion and interviews regarding a new occupation.

Already casualties in Africa, Europe and the Pacific area have included servicemen partially or to-tally deafened. On the industrial front, the hearing of a large num-ber is also being affected by con-stant exposure to noise; to the sounds of pneumatic riveting, air hammers and the din of machinery. Many chapters are actively partic-ipating in this rehabilitation pro-gram while others are indirectly helping by their membership in the national society.

Greetings were read from Mrs. Bessie Hewett, Milton, Mass., Mrs. Alice Northcott, New Bedford Mrs. Julia Marley, Gardiner, and Mrs. Blanchard Orne, Waterville, and a social hour was enjoyed. The next meeting will be held Thursday at 47 Broad street.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By the Pupils

Rev. Armin R. Gesswein of the Union Evangelistic Crusade, who has traveled extensively throughout the European countries, was the speaker at Tuesday's assembly. Rev. Charles A. Marsteller of Littlefield Memorial Church introduced the speaker whose topic was "The Real Nature of this War." According to Rev. Gesswein, the military aspect is only the secondary issue in this war. The real issue is a fomenting revolution, an inner shaking of the countries in the world and to down this revolution we must have a counter - revolution formed by Christianity. Said Rev. Gesswein, "Christianity and religion are involved mightily in this struggle and out of this war should come, not a survival, but a revival of Christianity." During the assembly, Billy Hoyt, a member of the Evangelistic Crusade, sang the hymn, "I'd Rather Have Jesus."

Lloyd Snowdell conducted morning devotions and at the close of the assembly Principal Blaisdell expressed the thanks and appreciation of the school for the fine program.—Joan Abbott Clives Classes this week are busy selecting the ten most important news events of 1943. They include the Terahan Conference, the progress of the Red Army, the defeat of the U Boat activities off our coast, and the bombing of Germany.

Mr. Blaisdell invited the members of the Clean Plate Club, from the McLean Building, to see a motion picture "The Perfect Tribute" at the high school on Wednesday.

A new and increasingly popular comedy, "Thumbs Up" has been chosen as the Junior Class Play to be presented in the high school auditorium on the evenings of February 16 and 17. In the January issue of "The Thespian Magazine" the publishers report this play to be its best seller. "Thumbs Up" was first presented to the public in October, 1943. Try-outs for cast are now being held with 50 Juniors originally out for the play. Final try-outs are scheduled for Friday evening.

Two new books for the Library this week are "So Little Time" by John P. Marquand, and "How To Pass a Written Examination" by Harry C. McKown. We expect a great rush for the latter book in the next few weeks.

The Junior Librarians will meet with Mrs. Pitts, faculty advisor next Thursday morning, to organize for their year's work.

The sad news of "Missing in Action" concerning their father has been received by Barbara and Eleanor Young. All sympathy goes to them, and always the hope that a later bulletin will find more hopeful news.

War stamps and bonds sold in Mrs. Pitts' room Thursday amounted to $762.50.

In a time test in the use of the dictionary Betsy Cooper was the winner in Thursday's Freshman English class, taught by Mrs. Gattcombe, and Elizabeth Fraser, on Friday.

The Junior High home economics girls, taught by Mrs. Wiggin, have completed their clothing problems for the year. The 7th grade girls have learned how to use a sewing machine. The articles that have been made are pin cushions, holders, dish towels, and aprons. The 8th grade girls have worked on blouses. Joan Young and Ethel Smith were the first to finish theirs. At present the 7th grade girls are working on their Grooming Program, which includes the essentials of good grooming. Food and Health Habits under Nutrition are being discussed by the 8th grade before their cooking classes are started.

Bena Anastasio and Rose Evan-sky are recovering from appendectomies at Knox Hospital.

Mrs. H. Laton Jackson and Mrs. Cleo Hopkins were substitutes this week.

The Junior High boys' basketball teams, coached by Jim Flanagan, have won both games so far this year. The next game is scheduled to take place at Thomaston, on Tuesday night, Jan. 11.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHER

Pupil of the Late Maggie I. Davis of Tenant's Harbor Pays Homage in Verse

Jamaica, Vt., Jan. 4.
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Thank you for your recent obituary of Mrs. Maggie I. Davis. The article fails to mention the fact that at one time she was a public school teacher and as such some of us who were among her pupils will remember her. In 1933 she taught the Tenant's Harbor Primary "The Little School" of the childhood of so many of your readers. I feel that I must add the enclosed attempted appreciation of her to your obituary statements.

CHILDHOOD TEACHER

For one term she was my teacher. When first I attended school. In the long ago days of my childhood I sat beneath her cultural rule. Then all her life long she considered that I was still one of her boys. Had sympathized with me in sorrow. Had shared with me all of my joys. To visit her once in a while. And ever rejoiced at my coming. With a sincere and friendly welcome. And kindly and beautiful smile. Now her ministry here on earth ended. Her prayers for my highest success. She has gone to find rest from her labors.

In Paradise happiness. I am sure she awaits my coming. To join her in Heaven above. At the feet of the Perfect Teacher. Who taught her all children to love.

"The Old Gallows"

Mrs. Overlock Quotes Dresden History In Answering Mrs. Cuddy

Washington, Jan. 3.

Replying to the inquiry "When Was the Old Gallows Used" I find this reference in "History of Dresden" by Charles Edwin Allen, pub-

1931, on page 254, quote: "At this term of court Thomas Meloney, of Cushing, for lewdness continued from June 10th, 1785, to the present time, was sentenced to stand in the pillory one hour, and be whipped thirty stripes. . . . As this and other cases where whipping was part of the penalty, were tried here, we may rightly surmise that both pillory and whipping post were near where the gallows was known to have been erected, that is, in the field northeasterly from the present home of Ellsbury W. Moody, near the old Court House. Tradition affirms that the gallows was visible from the river, and that some sat in their boats on the water to witness the hanging of Fortis and another, possibly Hadlock."

Page 253 in the same book also says, a news item which appears in the September 13, 1794, issue of The Eastern Herald, published at Portland, which item runs as follows:

"Edmund Fortis, a negro man, now under death sentence in Pownall-borough jail for rape and murder, is to be executed on the 26 inst., between 12 and 3 o'clock. According to North's History of Augusta, Fortis was executed in September, 1794. Other references in same Dresden History may also be found. Most certainly the gallows was used before Maine became a state or the Maine State Prison was established, which was in 1824.

Does this satisfactorily answer Mrs. Cuddy's request? Being somewhat of a delver into history I was interested in the query myself. "The Old Court House" is still standing and although I have never been inside it, I have several times been past it. It was built in 1761 and the builder was Gershom Flagg. It is 45x44 feet in size and three stories high and said to have 853 panes of glass in the windows. The Old Court House is open to visitors, I have been told, during the Summer months and I hope sometime to be able to pay a visit to it.

Mrs. Clara Overlock.

P. S. Why not Ye Roving Reporter visit and give us one of his most interesting stories about it?

(With gas so scarce, and a correspondent like Mrs. Overlock available, there can be but one answer as to who should have this interesting assignment. Mrs. Overlock, you're hereby elected.—[The R. R.]

YESTERDAY'S HEROES—So-called "stunt" flights of a dozen years ago are paying dividends today. They not only made possible the marvelous engines and planes, they developed some of our greatest airmen. For instance, Brig. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, recently decorated for directing bombing against Germany, piloted the first re-fueling flight.

Col. Lester J. Maitland, now leading bombing missions from England, first flew non-stop to Hawaii. And probably the most famous today of yesterday's heroes is a little man with a seamed face and cheery smile—Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle who once retired from racing because "I am too old!"

AIRLINES APPLAUDED—U. S. commercial airlines have received a well-deserved pat on the back. The Office of War Information reports that the domestic air carriers today, despite a few planes, are carrying more passengers than ever before.

Hot competition among these domestic lines developed the unexcelled operational procedure that made such performance possible and enabled them, in addition, to carry the bulk of the air cargo to the fighting fronts. The one airline principally devoted to overseas flying before the war couldn't carry the load alone. That, say observers, is another reason for extending the competitive system to international routes. In a future crisis, the U. S. would have the tools to do any necessary job.

TOMORROW'S PLANES—A helicopter in every garage? Apparently not yet for a while. Col. H. F. Gregory, the Army's chief 'copter pilot, has just declared the machine is more difficult to fly than the conventional plane. But he does predict a day of push-button controls.

At the same time three leaders of the aircraft industry said the greatest hope for a post-war increase in flying lay in the perfecting of a fool-proof airplane—a flivver of the air—for the man-in-the-street. If they're right, it looks like wings, not rotors, will continue to fly most of us for a good many years after the war.

Many Changes Mark History of Bulgaria

As a result of wars and other pressures, territorial changes in Bulgaria have occurred so frequently that the nation has been compared to an accordion in action. Long before independence was won from Turkey (1908), its boundaries, as an autonomous state, were sharply expanded and contracted. It gained considerable ground in the First Balkan war of 1912 and 1913, when Bulgaria and allied Greeks, Serbs, and Montenegrins fought Turkey.

In the second Balkan war, many of the gains were wiped out. Bulgaria's participation in the World war on the side of Germany and Turkey resulted in the loss of the valuable front on the Aegean sea coast. This loss has never been accepted as final by Bulgaria, and has long played its part in the troublesome border questions of south-east Europe.

One of Bulgaria's old demands for lost regions was met in the 1940 territorial juggling in this part of the world. Then Romania ceded Bulgaria the southern Dobruja area, along the northeastern Bulgarian frontier. Germany's invasion of Greece and Yugoslavia brought the occupation by Bulgarian troops of Yugoslavian Macedonia and Grecian Thrace and other districts.

Cattle Shipping

When shipping, never use clubs or canes in sorting and moving livestock. Instead use a canvas slapper or electric prod-pole, either of which brings the desired results without bruising.

Use well constructed loading chutes that are properly cleated to prevent slipping. Don't overcrowd cars and trucks. Overcrowding cattle and sheep means that if an animal goes down it may not be able to get up and may either be trampled to death or too badly bruised to be suitable for meat.

Supply plenty of bedding, especially in winter. Inspect cars and trucks to be sure there are no protruding nails or bolts that may cut the animals.

In trucking livestock, be careful not to take corners fast or make sudden stops, either of which may pile up animals. Limit the feed and water prior to loading.
